National Political Conventions. RACY OPENING OF THE GREENBACK LABOR

The national greenback labor convention at Chicago, was called to order at 12:30 o'clock yesterday, by F. P. De Wees, of Pa., chairman of the national committee, who asked Rev. Mr. Ingalls of Des Moines, Iowa, to open the preceedings with prayer. Mr. Ingalis referred to the fact that prayer had been offered in New York for the two great national con-ventions at Chicago and Cincipnati, omitting any reference to this great come to Thee, oh Lord, on our own hook." [Ap-He asked heavenly direction in the plause.1 convention's proceedings. His prayer was interrupted by applause and cries of "Hear, hear," and "Amen." The chairman then read the call for the convention, and nominated Gilbert A. De La Matyr, of Indianapelis, for tem-porary president. He was unanimously elected. Chas. H. Lichman, of Mass., and Perry P. Maxson, of Kan., were appointed temporary secre-taries. About 650 delegates, representing all the states of the Union, were present, and nearly ,000 spectators. Chairman De La Maytr, on taking the chair, explained the principles of the party, and spoke of Gen. Garfield's reference in Congress to the Weaver resolutions as the last spawn of a dying faction as a false simile and an untrue statement. The convention then preceded to the appointment of the usual committees. During the call of states, all of which exceptOregon, responded, a delegate from New York moved that the painting of the late Z. Chandler, conspicuous over the stage, be removed, as ob-noxious to the feelings of the convention. The chairman ruled that the motion was out of order, but promised the removal of the obnoxious portrait. Unanimous consent was given to the reading of a memorial from the Women's National Suffrage convention by Mrs. Gage. While waiting for the reports of the committee the convention was addressed by Messrs. Wallace and Wright, of Canada, on the currency question, and by Denis Kearney on the repub lican nominees. The Cincinnati resident committee of the democratic national convention has made considerable progress in preparing Music Hall for the use of the democratic national convention. The telegraph companies will have offices in the corridors on each side of the hall, in direct communication with the delegates, press representatives and stage. The reporters' tables will be placed in two rows in front of the stage. Delegaces will have the front portion of the hall. Ladies will be admitted to reserved seats in the rear of the stage. The decorations will be simple, the grandeur of the interior of the hall itself forbidding any elaborate display. The committee is assured that railroads all over the country will give reduced rates to persons attending the Political Notes.

Most of the newspaper portraits of the republican presidential nominee would make Mrs. Garfield tear her hair should she be so unfortunate as to see them. The so-called likeneses published by the Boston Herald, the Cincinnati Commercial and Gazette, and the Philadelphia News are particularly atrocious; but they pretty much all look as though they were devised by his enemies.

The probable intentions of Mr. Tilden still continue to attract attention and provoke speculation. The latest from New York is to the effect that an important meeting of democratic leaders is to be held in that city to-day or to-mowrow, at which his future course will be definitely decided upon. For the present, the rumor is that he has abandoned Mr. Randall, and that his second choice for President after himself is the Hon. William L. Scott, of Erie. In view of results at Chicago, the Memphis

Avalanche expresses the opinion that "Boss Conkling is a big man in New York, but lacks the requisite breadth to fill out a prairie land-When Wendell Phillips was informed of the result at Chicago and asked his opinion of it, he said: "Please excuse me; I have no word to

This may be construed as a big thing for Garfield. When Wendell fails to pitch in, it is safe to suppose that absolutely no ground for fault-finding exists. It is said, and no doubt truly, that some of the idiotic remarks attributed to Col. Fred Grant were manufactured by anti-third termers. Delegates to national conventions have been nominated to the Vice Presidency before this, but General Garfield presents, we believe, the first instance of a delegate being selected by the body of which he was a member for the high position of candidate for President of the United There is an increasing sentiment in favor of Senator Bayard. THURSDAY, June 10. SENATE, -On motion of Mr. Morrill, the bill appropriating $40,000 to aid in building a monument on the revolutionary battle field of Bennington was taken up. Mr. Cockrell opposed such appropriations of the money of the people. Mr. Teller thought the government ought to pay its honest debts before it put np monuments all over the country.

The Senate proceeded to consider the calendar.

Senate bill increasing the police force of the District of Columbia, and repealing the statute requiring appointees to be ex-soldiers of the civil war was passed.

Mr. Kernan, from the committee on finance, reported favorably on House bill putting a special duty of 25 cents per bushel on barley malt in place of an ad valorem duty. Placed on the calendar. The report of the conference committee on the river and harbor appropriation bill was presented and adopted.

The bill extending the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in the District of Columbia was passed.

The president pro tem. laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting, in response to a reso-lution of March 8th last, a statement of the amount of money expended by the United States for all purposes necessarily growing out the war of the rebellion, including public debt, pensions, &c. nouncing that the conference committee on the river and harbor appropriation bill had come to an agreement thereon. The report was agreed On motion of Mr. Morse, joint resolution was passed authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to loan flags and bunting to the city of Boston, Mass. Mr. Tucker introduced bill, which was referred to the committee on ways and means, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be levied a duty of 35 per cent. ad valorem on cotton ties, which shall be shown to have been ordered under bona fide and absolute contracts entered into prior to 27th of May, 1880, and which shall be imported prior to January 1st, 1881, and authorizing the refunding of the amount of duties in excess of 35 per cent, ad valorem, collected since 27th of May, 1880, on such articles. such articles.

Mr. Harris (Va.) moved to dispense with the morning hour, for the purpose, as he stated, or then moving to proceed to business on the Speaker's table, and taking up for consideration the Senate bill regulating the pay of deputy marshals.

This motion, which required a two-third vote, was defeated by the republicans. Mr. Harris then asked that a day should be set apart for the consideration of that bill. Mr. Keifer said that the republican side d' not wish to obstruct business by objecting to take up that bill, but would demand that a reasonable time should be given for debate. Mr. Harris stated that his side of the House did not desire any time for debate, but were willing to grant a reasonable time to the re-Before an agreement was arrived at, a demand for the regular order put an end to further negotiations. The Speaker then proceeded to call commit tees for reports, but the only bill reported was one from the committee on mines and mining, for the survey and disposal of the mineral lands of the United States. It was referred to the committee of the whole. On motion of Mr. Welborn, the bill was passed creating the northern judicial district of

Mr. Tucker then moved that the House resolve itself into committee for the purpose of considering the tariff bills. The republicans refused to vote, thus leaving the House without a quorum, and Mr. Tucker, stating that he did not desire to obstruct the public business, withdrew his motion for the present.

Mr. Harris (Va.) moved to proceed to business on the Speaker's table. On a vote by tellers, a majority of the republicans refused to vote, stating that they did not want to take up the "electoral count" bill. Mr. Hawley, however, stating that he was not willing to dodge that bill, but wanted it taken up for consideration and action, voted in the affirmative, and his example was followed by several other republicans. The point of "no quorum" being raised, the yeas and nays were ordered and the motion was agreed to-yeas 143, nays 28; so the House proceeded to the consideration of business on the Speaker's table.

INGERSOLL ON GARFIELD.-In an interview with a reporter of the Chicago Times, last Sunday, Col. Ingersoll expressed himself in regard to Gen. Garfield as follows: "I think Garfield's presentation of Sherman was admirable in every respect—candid, fair, kind to all parties, and upon an exceedingly high plane of thought. One sentence in his speech struck me as par-ticularly fine: 'His hand was in the workmanship of the statutes that restored and brought back the unity and married calm of states.' I think, too, the figure with which he opened ex-tremely beautiful: 'It is the calm level of the sea from which the heights and depths are measured.' When we take into consideration what Mr. Garfield was talking about, and the subject that inspired his remarks, we must admit that the effort was an immense success. I shall always believe, as long as I live, that Garfield, while describing Sherman, was think-ing of Blaine or himself. If any outsider is taken, I hope it will be Garfield. If Ohio wants a man, let Ohio ask for her best."

HONORS TO GEN. GARFIELD. Enthusiastic Reception at Cleve-land—Speech by the Republican Candidate for President.

CLEVELAND, O., June 10.—General Garfield and party arrived here last night from Chicago in a special car. At stations along the route crowds were gathered to see the republican nominee for President, Garfield showing himself frequently on the platform and bowing ac-knowledgments, but not making any speech further than occasionally to return thanks for the compliment paid him by the demonstration. The depot nere and the adjacent streets were crowded with people. A large committee of Clevelanders met the train at Elyria and accompanied the party to this city. As the train entered the station an artillery salute of a hundred guns was fired and a band struck up, while the gathered thousands cheered boisterously. The party took carriages without ceremony, General Garfield's barouche being drawn by four white steeds decorated with flags. A procession was formed, headed by the band, the Cleveland Grays and the 3d and 4th ward Garfield clubs, organized yesterday. A transparency carried by the 3d ward club bore the inscription: "Ohio's Senator: Ohio's Major General; Onio's President; solid for the Carpenter President. The true favorite son of Ohio is the favorite son of the Union. He who at the age of 16 steered a canal boat will steer the ship of state at 50.

Gen. Garfield's Speech. The procession, followed by a great throng, passed through several down-town streets to the Kennard House, around which thousands of ing the arrival of General Garfield, Gov. Foster addressed the assembly. General Garfield was shortly after introduced by Mayor Herrick, and said: "Fellow-citizens of my native county and of my state: I thank you for this remarkable demonstration of your good will and enthusiasm on this occasion. I cannot at this time address you in speech other than to say that I know that all this demonstration means your gladness at the unity and harmony and good feeling of the great political party, and in part your good feeling toward a neighbor and an old friend. For all these things I thank you, and bid you all good night."

A Serenade Last Night. After this brief speech Mr. Garfield held a levee in the hotel parlors for nearly an hour. after which he was driven to the residence of city treasurer Everett, who was a delegate to the Chicago convention and whose guest he is while in the city. There Gen. Garfield was serenaded and appeared on a porch to bow and re-turn thanks, after which he held a short re-

The conference, after determining the mode of procedure in ascertaining the boundary line, will probably instruct the technical commission to proceed to the spot, the conference meanwhile adjourning. These preliminary labors will consume about two weeks. When the technical commission is ready to report the conference will reassemble and draw up the final protocal, giving an authoritative interpretation of article 24 of the treaty of Berlin. This will be the basis of the collective mediation of the powers. The conference has no control over the attitude of Turkey and Greece, as they will not be represented. It seems it has been assumed by the powers thus far that their decisions will be accepted as a matter of course. matter of course.

Another Shocking Outrage. WHITE LADY KNOCKED DOWN AND SERIOUSLY INJURED BY A COLORED RUFFIAN. About 9:30 o'clock, last night, Mrs. Bertha Hofiman, a respectable white woman, living at No. 1335 E street s.e., was struck on the head and knecked down near her residence, by a negro. THE GARBAGE SERVICE. Yesterday afternoon Health Officer Townshend issued a circular to the public, stating that "much delay and inconvenience is experienced in the collection of garbage by reason of the time consumed in making collections from many residences. The season has now arrived when the accumulations of garbage are much increased, and the work of removal in a satisfactory manner is a serious one. To assist the collectors in effecting prompt and speedy re-moval our citizens are requested to place garbage at the most accessible point on their premises, to always have it ready for the collector; and when possible to place it on the alley or street adjoining their residences. By conform-ing to this request the public will greatly as-sist the health department in securing prompt removal of offals.

THE WASHINGTON KINDERGARTEN NORMAL IN-

Noer, Ella Jones, Gertrude Hitz, Kate Birrane and Mary R. Pollock; recitations were delivered by Misses Gertrude Jones and Mary Regina Pollock, and there was music by Miss Hitz. Mrs. Pollock gave some exceedingly appropriate parting words to the graduating class, after which Dr. Henry Barnard, vice president of the American Froebel Union, presented the diplomas to the ladies named above. Two other students resident in Newark are also very sick, Charles Parker, son of Hon. Courtlandt Parker, being one of them.

the doctor was a child, and his mother removed to Washington that her son might have the advantage of Rev. Mr. Carnahan's classical school in Georgetown. This eminent teacher was afterwards president of Princeton College. His mother about this time was married to the Rev. Mr. Laurie, a popular and eloquent Presbyterian minister of Washington city, with whom she lived happily until her death.

When sufficiently advanced in years and study Dr. Hall was sent to Jefferson College, at Canonsburg, Pa., where he graduated in letters. He then commenced the study of medicine with Dr. Henderson, of Georgetown. Having read Dr. Henderson, of Georgetown. Having read over the usual course he attended lectures in the University of Pennsylvania, where he grad-uated M. D. in 1827. He wrote his thesis for the occasion on the "Physiology of the Brain and Nerves." After receiving his degree he was appointed one of the physicians to Blockley hos-pital, Philadelphia, where he spent a year in attentive and laborious study. Returning to Washington he opened an office and soon ac-quired a good practice. He was an expert anatomist, and was on that account, when at col-lege and in the hospital at Philadelphia, chosen by Prof. Gibson to prepare his subjects for de-monstration. He dissected the famous case of Axiliary Aneurism, reported by Prof. Gibson and referred to in all works on surgery, which was caused by the reduction of a dislocated shoulder that had been out of place for six weeks. Dr. Hall's report of the anatomical or nost mortem post mortem appearances is published in the 14th volume of the "American Journal of the Medical Sciences," pp. 160-162, March, 1828. The doctor opened a room in the square between 6th and 7th streets on Pennsylvania avenue, for teaching anatomy to medical students. This enterprise was quite successful, and was con-tinued until he accepted a chair in the medical

Dr. Hall inherited some considerable means, but still better he possessed sound business judgment, and frequently made good investments, buying desirable real estate, which, when it advanced in value, he sold. Of late years he dealt more in stocks, and made his investments through his banker. He was for many years one of the active members of the Washington Library Company, an institution founded in 1812 and chartered two years later. To this library he gave the valuable collection of books which formed the library of the Rev. Mr. Laurie, which he bought from the executors of the estate at the appraisement. Many of these books are now in the Young Men's Christian Association Library.

Dr. Hall possessed an active and inquiring mind, and was never satisfied with a superficial knowledge of any subject, much less one in any way connected with his profession. He was, therefore, not only well informed, but learned in medicine. He was also a fine classical scholar, reading the classics with ease and pleasure. The whole range of the sciences and letters interested him, so that but few persons would appear to better advantage, even among those of the highest culture. He was a man of fine address, and in early professional life inclined to be fond of social intercourse, and was always a welcome guest in the best society. His superior education and the dignified and leading position taken by Dr. Hall led to his election to the chair of surgery in the medical department of Columbian University, in 1830, a position which he filled with great ability until pressure of private business induced him to resign it in 1837. He was a close and intelligent observer. and was greatly interested from an early day in the health department of our city, and has frequently been a confidential advisor of the city offic als on public health matters.

When the epidemic of cholera in 1832 reached this city Dr. Hall was in full practice, and generously gave his services to all who applied. I have with him looked over his book of charges and names of patients at that time. For days together he visited and prescribed for as many as one hundred patients.

Dr. Hall was the physician who attended most of the cases recurring in that mysterious epidemic of sickness which prevailed at the National Hotel in 1857. Many thought it to be the result of intentional poisoning, but the doctor looked upon it as resulting from sewer gas. The National Hotel was at the time filled with guests, it being the season preceding the inauguration of President Buchanan, when many of the leading statesmen of the country were in the house, so that numerous persons from all parts of the country were sufferers. His views of the causes were given to the board of health, and in private letters to leading physicians at a distance.

The doctor was an extensive reader of the best books and reviews up to the time of his death. The latest views of ulseases and of new remedies particularly interested him. He was, therefore, in consultations never at a loss to suggest efficient agents that had not been tried in the case. He was a careful and an accurate diagnostician, and the thorough study he had made of the brain and the nervous system made him an authority on all diseases affecting them. In the sick room Dr. Hall was a model physician, possessed of gentlemanly instincts and full of sympathy, clear perceptions of what was essential to be done, and a manner that secured confidence and respect, and which insured the carrying out of his directions to the letter.

From the time he retired from teaching in college until advanced years and impaired health admonished him to retire from practice, Dr. Hall was at the head of his profession in the city of Washington. In his life time he had rendered professional services to more of the eminent statesmen of our country then any other single physician. He was the regular physician to all of the Presidents from Jackson to Lincoln. He was also the medical adviser to most, if not all, of the foreign ministers resident in Washington during that period. During these years he had also an extensive consulting practice, and even after he decimed the care of patients, which he announced in a published card, was sought by the physicians for advice in critical cases as long as he would consent to g out or to se them in his own room. For many cars Doctor Hall was one of the Trustees of the Washington City Orphan Asylum, founded in 1815, and one of the charities in which his mother had come been one of the most zealous and efficient men. been a liberal conactive interest in and has been a liberal contributor in money to the Chila. d of managers which he was one of the boa. d of managers

He was at the Gallery the last time he was out of his house. The deceased was also a member of the Medi-cal Society of the District and one of its char-

He was likewise one of the original members of the Medical Association of the District of Columbia and of the Pathological Society of D.C., organized in 1840, and an honor-ary member of the Clinco Pathological Society formed here in 1865, and a member of the Amer ican Medical Association. In these positions he was accustomed to take part in the discussion of medical subjects, but he was always averse to writing or publishing, and thus but few articles from his pen have appeared in medical liter-ature. This proceeded from a peculiar sensitive-ness and shrinking from public notoriety, for he was not only a ready but a forcible and elegant writer, as all who have had the pleasure of a THE CAHILL FAMILY DIFFICULTY.—To-day, Messrs.
